

Calling Intern Psychologists

This is a unique opportunity to advance your skills and become a registered Psychologist by applying to be part of this exciting internship offer. If successful, during the internship you will have an opportunity to:

- Design a supervision plan specific to your interests;
- Attend 30+ hours of workshops;
- Participate in organisation visits and group based practicums aimed at stimulating your understanding across a wide range of areas of interest within Psychology;
- Gain valuable expertise and references from experienced supervisors;
- Gain exposure to various areas of work, and participate in vocational counselling aimed at knowing what work to do post internship.

Days of attendance and hours may be negotiated with the staff leading your supervision and internship process, and at a competitive rate. Some interns may also be eligible for paid placements after the first six months, and there is the potential for paid employment at the end of the supervision plan.

This diverse company is offering supervision with staff with years of experience in fields such as rehabilitation counselling, EAP, trauma management, organisational psychology, Youth in Crisis and Drug and Alcohol issues, with multiple disciplinary knowledge and experience. Truly a unique opportunity and one that won't last long as there are only limited places available.

You must have completed your fourth year studies and be eligible for internship with the NSW Psychologists Registration Board and be able to attend group and individual sessions Monday to Friday.
